GLORIOUS RECORD.

We give below an interesting statement of the services of the soldiers now living in the state of Ohio whose names are upon the roll of the Pension Office:

James McDermut, now living in Ohio, enlisted for three years, in 1777, at Easton, Pennsylvania, and marched to a rendezvous near Trenton, New Jersey, and thence to Germantown, Pennsylvania. During this period was in several skirmishes with the enemy, but the engagement at Germantown was the first regular battle he was in. Soon after, returned to Trenton and was occupied at intervals in pursuing and harassing the British and Hessians, as well as avenging the mercenary depredations and cruelties committed upon the inhabitants of New Jersey. Was one of the actors in the battle of Monmouth when the excessive heat of the sun, combined with the dust and smoke of the contest, and the too free use of cold water, caused so much suffering as well as death to many of the combatants. This soldier was under the immediate command of Col. Seeley, and well recollects the undannted courage and untiring activity displayed during the battle by him and Gen. Forman, and the conspicuous manner in which both passed along the lines several times to animate the soldiers.

Adam Link (now in Ohio) entered the regular service in 1777. His father, a bold, fearless man, had settled in Washington county, Pennsylvania, and in opposition to the advice of friends, on the extreme borders of civilization, near the Virginia line. Being thus exposed to the subtle dangers which then surrounded a frontier life, in the vicinity of Indians unfriendly to the whites, Adam acquired in the hardships and dangers of border warfare an experience which fitted him for future service in the cause of his country, as well as to assist in the protection of the property and the lives of the family. Immediately upon the commencement of hostilities, the Indians made a descent upon the settlement, captured his father, then murdered and scalped him, burnt the house and barn, destroyed a large field of corn, 100 hogs, 40 sheep, all the cattle and horses, and 300 bushels of wheat. From this period the family, from having enjoyed an unusual amount of wealth and inde pendence, were at once depressed into poverty, and suffered great privation and danger during the remainder of the war.

At the time of his enlistment under Capt. Mason, so well was he known as to cause this remark to be made of him: "He is a good marksman, and will now have an opportunity to try his skill." At different periods he served in the garrison at Wheeling, Moore, Dements, and Shepherd forts, and acted as an Indian spy, as well as scouting along the frontier; was at Wheeling garrison when Captain Mason was shot through the hips.

John Strait (now in Ohio) entered the Rhode Island line in 1775, commanded by Col. Varnum; has served under Generals Green and Sullivan; was in the regiment that landed on the island and marched against the British fort on Butt's Hill, but found that it was evacuated; was at the battle of Newport.

THE PORT OF THE WORLD.

A recent number of Chambers' Journal contained an article embodying some interesting facts regarding Liverpool, the greatest seaport of England and of the world. It appears that in 1857 nearly one-half of all the produces exported from England were shipped from this port. Out of £122,000,-000 of exportation, £55,000,000 were exported from Liverpool, about half that amount from London, sixteen millions from Hull, and the rest from Glasgow, Southampton, &c. The population, within four miles of the Exchange, at the present time is about 600,000 and the rate of annual increase about 10,000. The property and income tax paid by the inhabitants in 1857 amounted to upwards of £7,000,000 or $35,000,000. The amount of tonnage belonging to the port in the same year was 936,022 tons, being greater by 76,-882 tons than that of London itself. The amount of shipping which entered and cleared during the same year was upwards of nine million tons. Of the vessels which arrived from abroad, the United States sent by far the largest and most numerous, viz: 934 ships, of an average burthen of more than one thousand tons. There were from Italy 174 vessels, from Russia 102, and from France 317.

One great branch of the shipping business of Liverpool is the shipment of emigrants to foreign and colonial countries. The tide of German emigration, even now, flows through England and escapes through Liverpool, in preference to Hamburg and Bremen. Of the 212,875 British emigrants in 1857, nearly 156,000 sailed from this port. Of the above number the United States attracted 126,905, British America 21,000, and Australia 61,248. The number of emigrants who left the shores of Great Britain from 1815 to 1857 was upwards of four millions and a half.

The pride of Liverpool is her docks, which cover a space of no less than four hundred acres of water along the Mersey. They extend on the Liverpool side of the river a distance of five miles, and two miles on the Birkenhead side. The sea wall along the Liverpool side, by which the shipping in the docks is preserved from wind and storm, is one of the greatest works of any age. Its length is upwards of five miles, its average thickness cleven feet, and its average height from the foundations forty feet. Great difficulty was experienced in gaining a stable foundation for this great structure, and thousands of piles were driven and many great beams of timber sunk to secure a firm bottom. Upwards of eighty pairs of gigantic gates have been put up within the last thirty years, and some of them reach to the unparalleled width of one hundred feet .- Baltimore American.

CAUTION.—We beg leave to caution purchasers of our choice OLD MONONGAHELA WHISKIES against the deception and petty fraud which is practiced by certain parties in this city and in Baltimore, who have appropriated to them-selves exact copies of the Star Brands, long used and designed by us to distinguish our Old Whiskeys.

We can assure our friends and customers, that the unrivalled quality, everywhere acknowledged, of our choice OLD WHISKIES, cannot be equalled by these ingenious invaders of our rights. Our new establishment, Gibsonion Mills, on the Monongahela River, gives us unequalled facilities for making Whiskey of the choicest kind, from malted and kiln-dried grain.

Purchasers of our Old Whiskies will please to notice, the words GIBSONTON MILLS and JOHN GIBson, Sons & Co., are inserted in the new Brands which we now adopt; and we deem it a duty to our customers and ourselves, to give notice, that we will prosecute and expose any person or persons who may hereafter copy or use our Brands.

It is perfectly pure, beyond all doubt, being made ex-clusively of rye, hops, and barley-malt, with the utmost care. The quantity made is limited, and bought principally for private use, by gentlane connoissieurs in the surrounding counties, who are critically pipe in laying by a stock for improvement tain spring water, and the quality of the rye, concritically nice in laying by a stock for improvement. View of Jerusalem and the surrounding country, to which the attention of all who are interested Sunday Schools or Biblical study is invited. It is in map form, mounted on rollers, and is about nine feet long and six feet wide. Its accuracy is vouched for by many, who have travelled over the localities represented, as well as by many who, though they have never visited the ground have made themselves familiar, by long study, with its features and appearance. This view is so taken as to show not only the geographical location of the cities and villages rep resented on it, but so as to show the inequalities in the surface of the earth. These are so faithfully delineated as to throw great light on Scripture history, and to be of great advantage to any who would thoroughly understand the local allusions made in those parts of the Bible which speak of the localities here represented. The View is accompanied by an Outline Key, on which the places are numbered, the numbers referring to a descriptive Manual which also accompanies it, and which will give to any one, however unacquainted with the subject, sufficient information to enable him, after studying the Manual, to fully understand and explain the View.

The price of the View of Jerusalem, including the Outline Map or Key and the Manual, is ten dollars, which is an exceedingly small price for so large and valuable a publication.
